THE ROAD TO A SOUND FINANCIAL FUTURE BEGINS AT THE 2010 SEATTLE WEDDING SHOW
JAN. 16 AND 17

The 20th annual show helps save brides and grooms time and money by presenting more than 400 vendors under one roof.

SEATTLE -- Dec. 14, 2009 -- Fortunately, there is an affordable way for the newly betrothed to plan their celebration. Brides and grooms can save time and money by meeting all of their wedding vendors in two days, at one location, for the price of just one admission, at the Seattle Wedding Show.

Family-owned and locally operated since 1989, the Seattle Wedding Show has won Seattle Bride magazine's award for Best Wedding Show eight years in a row. On Jan. 16 and 17, brides, grooms, moms, dads, bridesmaids and groomsmen from all over the Northwest will converge on at the Washington State Convention & Trade Center to peruse flowers and favors; order invitations; sample cakes; and meet ministers and musicians.

Ticket sales begin at 9:30 a.m. Saturday, and doors open at 10 a.m. On Sunday, ticket sales begin at 10 a.m., and doors open at 10:30 a.m. Visitors who attend Saturday will receive a hand stamp that lets them back into the show at no charge on Sunday.

In addition to watching wedding gowns, tuxedos, bridesmaid dresses, mother-of-the-bride dresses and floral bouquets on the runway at fashion shows both days, brides will have the opportunity to save big on more than a thousand wedding gowns at the show's annual gown sale.

Tickets are $14 if ordered by January 11 at www.weddingshow.com, or $16 at the door. Kids under 12 are free. Guests who purchase at least two tickets online will receive a free copy of Seattle Bride magazine and a Spa Scotta gift bag, plus entry in Macy's grand prize giveaway. Show magazines and $2 discount coupons are available at Macy's Gift Registry, Safeway Floral Departments, La Belle Elaine's, The Tux Shop and Marcella's La Boutique.

Seattle Wedding Show is proud to donate a portion of each ticket to Gilda's Club Seattle, a nonprofit support community for people with cancer and their family and friends.
